Onomatophylacium:

OR,

THE CHRISTIAN NAMES

of Men and Women, now vſed within this Realme of GREAT BRITAINE, Alphabetically expreſſed, aſwell in Latine as in Engliſh, with the true Interpretations thereof.

Digeſted in Three ſeuerall Tables:

In { First / Second / Third } Tables { Wherein the Orthography of / the proper Latine for / the Signification of } { each Name

For the Inſtruction, Vſe and Benefit

1. Towardly Scholaſtickes,
2. Gentlemen, Tradeſmen, and perſons of all degrees, being ignorant of our Engliſh Orthography.
3. Parents deſirous to haue hopefull and happy Names giuen to their Children in Baptiſme.
4. God-fathers and God-mothers willing to giue ſuch Names.
5. Children, who by conſideration of their hopefull or happy Names, may endeuour to make their liues thereunto anſwerable, and bee found worthy thereof.
6. Young Clerkes, belonging to Lawyers or Notaries, and many of their Maſters, eſpecially the new-beginners and vnexperienced.

QVem commendo alijs, vobis dico, dono, libellum;
Dono, nec expetto præmia danda mihi:
Et quanquam specie prodit pretioq; pusillus;
Haud vestrum fastu negligat vllus enim:
Magnus enim studio fuit hic, magnusq; labore;
Respectu ac vsu qui (puto) magnus erit:
Denique (Patroni non parui) corpore paruum
Me, vestro magnum, spero, fauore fore.

To his Christian Brethren and Sisters of Great Britaine, by whom blessed Babes may be begotten or named; I. P. this his Great-little Labour, principally and respectively commendeth.

THe Names of persons famous and renoun'd,
For pious worth, wherein they did abound,
Though from Birds, Beasts, or Fishes they did spring,
From Trees, or Flowres, or some other things;
Vnpleasing, or at least improper all.
Baptized Mankinde by the same to call)
Some men to Children in times past did giue,
Them to prouoke such happy liues to liue:
And Some their Surnames now-a dayes impart
For Christian, to expresse a loueing heart
Towards the Parents, or to spread their owne,
And make ensuing people by them knowne;
But Those that at the Fount wee Christians take,
Bestow'd vpon vs for distinctions sake,
And for our mindes continuall Recordation
Of blessed Baptisme and Regeneration,
In ancient Ages chiefly were impos'd,
(A cause most worthy to be heere disclos'd)
Vpon good hope that Parents thoughts did beare,
Of future goodnesse in their Children deare:
Wherein, as in a Mirrour, may be seene,
What their chiefe wishes towards them haue beene:
For, these our Names haue some signification,
Taking from Common Words their Deriuation,
With Iewes and Gentiles, briefly with all Nations,
Witnesse my Table of Interpretations.
In which (as in a Garden we select What Herbes or Flowers we doe best affect)
Of pleasing Expositions you may finde
A pleateous Choice, and take what likes your minde;
Like weeds, reiecting many, that appeare
Vnsauery, or not fit for Christians Weare:
Make then good vse of this my Three-fold paines,
And for mine single, Seuen-fold be your Gaines.

Directions for the vse of this Table.

1. To know the true Orthography of a Name in English, you must looke for the Name desired, in the English Table or Catalogue vnder the Capitall Letter wherewith it beginneth: as, for Alexander, vnder A.

2. To know the Latine of such a Name; Note what number in Figures is placed against it in the Columne at your left hand, and against the same number in the Latine Table vnder the same Letter, is the Latine word for that name; As for example; Desiring to know how Gyles is written in Latine, First I finde Gyles in the English Table vnder the Letter G; against which Name seeing the number 12, I looke in the Latine Table, vnder the same Letter, and against the same number 12 I finde Ægidius, which is the Latine word desired. And if you would know the English of any Latine Name, obserue the same order from the Latine to the English Table. But vnderstand, that all Names in the English Table, expressed by Romane Letters, as Aaron, are vsed both for English and Latine.

3. To know what your Name signifies, First finde it in the English Table, as is formerly taught, and the same number in Figures that guideth you to the Latine therof in the second Table, will likewise direct you to the signification thereof in the third Table.

4. If you would Christen a Childe by a Name of good signification, First peruse the Table of Interpretation, and against such words of Interpretation as you like, note what number standeth: Then looke in the English Table for that number, vnder the same Capitall Letter; against which number is the Name desired. As for example, In the Table of Interpretation, vnder the Letter B, against the number 5, finding these words, [Sonne of Comfort,] I looke in the English Table for that number, vnder the same Letter, and there finde [Barnabie,] the Name desired.

5. Note that S. K. at the end of some Names in the English Table, doe declare, that the signification of those Names is sufficiently known.
